

28.02.2014

Filminteractive Market Call for Projects - open: 15th March 2014

Filminteractive Market is the first interactive and crossmedia content marketplace in Central and Eastern Europe. It is a place for young content creators and for those who want to sell or buy a project or technological solution. The best selected interactive films, crossmedia and digital content projects will be pitched in front of international professionals, content buyers, and European broadcasters. Filminteractive Market is a part of an international event – Filminteractive, taking place on 24-25th September 2014.

In 2013 Filminteractive Market had its first edition. We got 32 applications from different European countries and Canada. All the projects were evaluated by the international expert panel. The winner – NULLPUNKT from Estonia, got a HBO prize worth 10.000 PLN. Additionally all the finalists got priceless advice and lots of courage from the top experts from the media, film and advertising industry.

The 2014 Call for Projects is taking place between 15th March and 30th May 2014. “We are looking for interactive videos, crossmedia/transmedia projects, branded content and digital content – so Filminteractive organisers – We are interested in projects in all the phases of production: planning, creating, post – production, finished projects”

You can also submit an application or IT solution as long as it follows the thematic scope of Filminteractive Market.

For more information visit: www.filminteractive.eu

To submit a project, drop us a line at: project@filminteractive.eu

If you are a content buyer, let us know: agata.lepianka@filminteractive.eu